Brown's Sale.

Claude Brown's big horse, carriage, harness and land sale opened Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

There was a big crowd to witness the sale and a good many bidders on the ground.

The famous Penny twin-brothers of High Point were the auctioneers, and with their wide experience in this profession they hurried the sale along and produced the highest bids possible.

The sale was composed of high-class material, some of which went for a very small sum compared to its actual value. It was one of the biggest sales ever conducted in this section.

The Hendersonville band assisted by part of the Asheville band made music for the occasion.

ACCIDENT!

J. M. Kilpatrick, of Brevard, was seriously if not fatally injured in a runaway Saturday.

Mr. Kilpatrick's horse ran away with the buggy, he, his wife and child occupying it. The horse ran against another vehicle, and the occupants were thrown from both buggies. All others escaped serious injury, while Mr. Kilpatrick suffered the loss of several teeth, and had his face badly punctured by a stick.

$10.00 AND COSTS.

M. M. Shepherd, who sells shoes, wants to know the answer of this: If a hen with a large brood of young chickens should lay an orange, what would the young chickens say. And the answer is written: They would say, of course, "Oh, see what an orange mama laid!" (Orange marmalade, you know.)

"Sunshine" Hawks Lecture.

There was a large audience at the Auditorium last Friday to hear "Sunshine" Hawks. Before the lecture two beautiful vocal solos with violin accompaniment were rendered by Miss Eva Blythe.

Dr. Hawks lecture was fully equal in every respect to those he made during the Chautauqua.

In the opening he said that he had no particular subject upon which to speak and he usually gave the term "hash" to such lectures. Of course, as usual his "hash" consisted of many substantial things that was pleasant to the taste of the audience.

He emphasized the fact that ladies should always be respected and especially parents. To give an illustration he told the story of how a poor father deprived himself many good things to send his son to school and after the boy had completed his course a contest was given and his son won the prize. To show his honor and respect he stepped from the stage and pinned it on his father's coat who he said deserved it. Mr. Hawks then gave illustrations of the little respect that are shown to some parents. He spoke briefly of temperance, and in all he said, he put particular stress on the importance of living happy and dispensing sunshine wherever possible. He spoke in glowing terms of this city and its people and said that the proper spirit prevailed here and the town people pulled together.

Dr. Hawks has endeared himself to all the people who have had the pleasure of hearing him, for he has a matchless way of scattering his sunshine among the people.

Graded School to Open September 17th.

The Hendersonville graded school will open Thursday, September 17th.

It will be a pleasant surprise to many to know that Supt. R. M. Ivins will be here to superintend the school again after serving several years in that capacity, for on the close of the last session his announcement that he would not be here longer was much regretted.

He resigned his work in Pennsylvania and returned to this city, being induced by his many friends.

There will be some changes in the faculty this year. Miss Kate Ballard, of Franklinton, N. C., will fill the vacancy of Miss Mattie Stancel, while Prof. Ruhl's vacancy will be filled by Miss Hassie Lon Ponder, of Mars Hill, N. C. Miss Ponder since graduating at the Baptist Seminary at Raleigh, and taking a course in the Southern Conservatory of Music at Durham has rendered three years valuable service and brings with her a state certificate.

The faculty will be found proficient in all respects, and a good attendance is looked for on the opening day.

Miss Helen Morris left yesterday for Durham where she will be music instructor in the conservatory of music.
